

Chief Jeremy Craft serves as Lehi Fire Chief and is the president of Western Fire Chiefs Association (WFCA). With a strong commitment to advancing the fire service, Chief Craft is passionate about leadership development, firefighter health and wellness, and building innovative, forward-thinking organizations.

Throughout his career, he has championed initiatives focused on cancer prevention, professional standards, and regional collaboration. Known for his steady leadership and people-first approach, Chief Craft believes in investing in others, strengthening partnerships, and preparing the next generation of fire service leaders.

He remains dedicated to reducing risk in the community through education, mitigation, and exceptional emergency response.